COMPUTEREASE TO GO “PLATINUM” WITH INDEPENDENT ELECTRICAL CONTRACTORS

Leading Construction Software Company will bring financial and project management expertise to IEC members

Cincinnati, OH – ComputerEase, the industry leader in construction software, has announced they have joined the Independent Electrical Contractors as a national “Platinum Partner” for the remainder of 2008 and ahead into 2009.

ComputerEase joins other industry giants that include 3M, The Home Depot, Sprint, GE, Eaton and Siemens in the IEC Industry Partner program to strengthen their relationship with electrical contractors.

ComputerEase has been providing construction companies across the country with project management and accounting solutions since 1983. They now boast over 7,000 installations across all 50 states, including more than 20,000 individual users.

“ComputerEase has had a long standing relationship with the IEC at a local level, and with our recent product developments we wanted to take that partnership to the next level,” President John Meibers said of the new partnership. “The evolution of FieldEase to the tablet PC will greatly impact service contractors; the ability to dispatch calls, complete work orders and process service invoices in the same day will greatly improve cash flow for our service management clients. We look forward to trumpeting these advancements and techniques through the IEC’s training and speaking opportunities to help improve their members’ bottom line.”

Meibers will attend the IEC Electric Expo held October 29 through November 1 at the Georgia World Congress Center in Atlanta, Georgia. Meibers will be on hand at the ComputerEase booth #401 to personally introduce himself and the company to the IEC membership. ComputerEase will be offering special “introductory” pricing at the IEC Expo for its members.

The IEC is the leading trade association for merit shop electrical and systems contractors. IEC provides an array of products and services enabling its members to become some of America’s most successful business practitioners. Founded in 1957, the IEC boasts over 3,800 member companies representing more than 100,000 electrical workers.

“We’re thrilled that ComputerEase has joined the IEC on a national level,” President Tim Cleary of TMI Electric said. “We’ve been in business for over 25 years and a ComputerEase client for the past 8 years. I wish I wouldn’t have waited; we have become far more efficient and profitable by using their software and having access to their expertise.”
