ELECTRONIC INVOICE ROUTING

While the construction industry will never go 100% paperless, at least contractors can target the elimination of superfluous paper process-namely invoices. Electronic Invoice Routing streamlines the invoice approval and routing process for contractors. Accounts payable personnel send invoices, along with purchase orders, change orders, and other documentation, to field personnel for approval. Project managers in the field are alerted of the documents waiting in the computer folder for approval. From there, they can add comments and send the electronic file back to payables personnel in the office. Interfaced with ComputerEase accounting, documentation is easily accounted for in the financial system.
